The Aston Martin V8 was manufactured from 1969 to 1989. The series 4 "Oscar India" specification was introduced in October 1978 at the Birmingham international Motor Show. Visually the car remained similar to previous series, however the former scoop on the bonnet gave way to a closed "power bulge", while a spoiler was integrated into the tail. Most Oscar India cars were equipped with a Chrysler automatic transmission, with wood trim fitted for the first time since the DB2/4 of the 1950s. Just 352 Oscar India models were built from 1978 through 1985.

This 'Ol' V8 forms part of a collection owned by an AMOC enthusiast and is presented in excellent condition with Salisbury Blue paintwork with matching blue carpets, and cream leather interior. Being one of the last series 4 cars produced, it benefits from the very desirable '580' S spec eng
