OFFERED WITHOUT RESERVE

Model 48. 85 bhp, 221 cu. in. Flathead V8 engine, three-speed manual floor-shift transmission with Columbia two-speed rear end, solid front axle and live rear axle with transverse semi-elliptic leaf springs, four-wheel mechanical drum brakes. Wheelbase: 112"

Under Edsel Ford's direction, the 1935 Fords were restyled by designer Phil Wright who was then working at Briggs Manufacturing Company, which was supplying many Ford bodies. A veteran of the Walter M. Murphy Company, Wright's prior credits also included the 1933 Pierce Silver Arrow, and he would go on to work at Packard. The public found the new Ford attractive, so much so that it handily outsold Chevrolet.

The front doors reverted to hinges at the A pillar, and the overall look was cleaner, in part because cowl lamps were eliminated with their function incorporated into the headlamps. Although the wheelbase remained the same, the engine was moved fo
