Conceived as a modern take on the classic American muscle car, the Dodge Viper is a two seater sports car, possibly the most powerful production car produced by Dodge. The dream behind the design of the Dodge Viper was directly inspired by Carroll Shelby, one of the automotive industry's greatest legends. The Viper first appeared as a concept to test public reaction at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit on January 4th 1989. Receiving enthusiastic public acclaim as orders began to flow before the show even ended, the 'go' was given to develop it as a production

car. 'Team Viper' was organized with a group of 85 engineers that began development in March the same year. Its primary goal was to construct a vehicle that concentrated on performance above all else, the benchmark: bei
