The Chesil company maker of some of the finest and most accurate Porsche 356 replicas of all, has built over 570 cars during the last fourteen years. Build quality has always been of paramount importance, especially in regard to chassis and running gear, so that the engines and running gear are uprated to ensure that the car more than holds it's own in modern traffic conditions. Coachwork is of very high-quality fibreglass construction, carefully moulded from an aluminium original and of course the resultant lines are as elegant as ever after more than fifty years.

Today's example was factory-built by Chesil in 1995 and has had only two owners from new. Finished in Porsche Pacific blue metallic, still presenting well, the car has a lovely cream leather interior featuring high back seats, wind-up windows, heated front screen and Moto Li
