NO RESERVE

The evolution of the Zonda has been an exciting journey. From the C12 in 1999, with a 389bhp 6-litre V12 engine, to the 555bhp 7.3-litre C12S in 2002, Pagani has produced a range of examples, ninety five in total, that have been hailed by motoring journalists as the epitome of what a modern supercar should represent. As new models have become lighter, more powerful and faster than their predecessors, the Zonda has humbled cross-town rivals, Ferrari and Lamborghini, and shown that traditional small volume Italian coachbuilders can rub shoulders with industry giants. Unveiled at the 2005 Geneva Motor Show, the Zonda F was once again considered near perfection by most. However, Horacio Pagani believed that more could be extracted from the chassis and so the Clubsport was born. With additional power and significant optional up
