Beschreibung

"The Fulvia was an extremely forward-looking and modern car for its time when it was launched in 1963. It was available either as a saloon or as a coupé. Fulvias enjoyed an extensive competition history which included winning the International Rally Championship in 1972. The influential journal, 'Road and Track', after testing one in 1967 summed up the Fulvia as 'a precision motorcar, an engineering tour de force'.

This right hand drive Lancia Fulvia was registered in May 1976. This charming car looks good in dark blue with a black interior. The vendor describes the car as being lovely in all categories and is presented to auction with a V5c registration certificate and a file of receipts. The cars file also contains some photography of the vehicles restoration."
