EXTERIOR

This striking Roadster emits an impressive road presence, finished in a beautiful coat of Obsidian black metallic. The convertible roof operates completely as intended with no evidence of any wear to the covering whatsoever. The paintwork retains its deep glossy finish from factory, complimenting the sharp bonnet louvres and imposing quarter vent gills.

The chrome double exit exhaust, adjustable rear wing and bold 6.3 designation offer some visual stimuli beyond the elegant lines of AMG's first in house design.

INTERIOR

Boarding of the SLS is a truly first class affair with the cabin adorned in leather and carbon fibre. The red and black contrasting leather seats are perfectly presented with no fraying or distortion.

The whole interior maintains excellent original integrity whilst the AMG branded aluminium entry sills and surrounding padding are remarkably clean and free of marks or grazing.

ENGINE & TRANSMISSION

In its ultimate specification, the M156 engine is at its most brash and its most potent in the SLS. With a number of driving modes at your disposal the character always remains - one of depth and intent with ferocious noise upon load that concludes with pops and bangs on the overrun. Sports plus or Manual override modes are the SLS sweet spot, at its visceral best, although equally the comfort setting boasts excellent damping and refinement. It has a gorgeous bass-laden rumble under full throttle, and when combined with the roof lowered the amazing 6.3-litre V8 engine roar enters the cabin at every opportunity.

WHEELS, TYRES & BRAKES

The optional diamond cut 10 spoke design wheels compliment the Obsidian black metallic with distinction; sharp and bright against the faultless paintwork. Wrapped in designation Continental rubber the car is best placed to make the most of both wet and dry conditions, each tyre displaying excellent tread depth.

The red AMG branded calipers show bright and clean with the steel brakes performing admirably on test with excellent pedal feel and modulation.
