Laverda Motocicli, based in Breganze, in the province of Vicenza, was a famous Italian motorbike brand name, synonymous with high performance, brilliant sporting successes and innovation. Like many companies active in the 1950s, it grasped the strong demand for popular motorization of that period by presenting its own scooter proposal and, at the Milan Motorcycle Show, in 1959, it presented the 49 model, powered by a single-cylinder 4-stroke engine housed in a pressed sheet metal frame, and 9" wheels. Around 2,000 units were produced, many of which were destined for export. Today, it has become quite a rare and sought-after object. Restored and presumably never used since. A general mechanical check is recommended before use.
