
BMW Alpina Roadster 'S' launched in UK

05 February 2004 | Classic Driver

ALPINA is delighted to announce the UK launch of the exciting Roadster S and Roadster S Lux. The cars offer unrivalled levels of performance and handling and increased levels of interior comfort and exterior styling.

Performance -

Both models utilise the renowned ALPINA 3.4 litre six, each hand-built in Buchloe, Germany, and fitted on the production line during the cars' manufacture.

Strong performance comes courtesy of the 300bhp available at 6,300rpm and the ROADSTER S' low kerb weight of 1320kg. Together they yield a 0-60mph sprint time of just 5.1 seconds. Top speed is 169mph (172mph with the optional hardtop).

The ZF S6-37 six-speed manual gearbox, developed to ALPINA specifications, augments the sporty nature of the car and enhances driver involvement. 362Nm (266 lb-ft) of torque is generated at 4800rpm, yet the real key to the ROADSTER S' breathtaking elasticity is the availability of 90% of maximum torque from 3000rpm to 6500rpm.

Luxury appointments -

The BMW ALPINA ROADSTER S provides a high level of equipment as standard, with the BMW ALPINA ROADSTER S Lux package offering a host of additional features at a moderate price.

The Lux package includes:

- Multi-function steering wheel
- ALPINA Wind Deflector
- ISOFix child seat mounts
- Headlamp Washer System
- Park Distance Control

- 19" ALPINA DYNAMIC Wheels with MICHELIN Pilot Sport tyres (Front: 8.5" x 19", 235/35ZR19; Rear: 9.5" x 19", 265/30ZR19)

Economy and environment -

Fuel consumption is commensurate with the performance level of the ROADSTER S; with Urban 18.6mpg, Extra-Urban 40.9mpg, combined 28.5mpg. The CO2 combined emission value is 238g/km.

The ROADSTER S fulfils Euro III emissions, and ALPINA fulfils current EU requirements regarding recyclability of its vehicles.
