Bell & Ross Belgian Grand Prix Chronograph

The 'Belgian Grand Prix Chronograph' is presented to the three drivers on the podium at Spa-Francorchamps. To mark this occasion, Bell & Ross has produced a special series of chronographs, limited to just 100 pieces.

So that means that Messrs Raikkonen, Alonso and Button will be sporting another addition to their (no doubt) extensive collection of timepieces. Notwithstanding their own team sponsorship (TAG-Heuer and Seiko for the Finn and Briton), there's no doubt the euphoria of a top-three finish at one of the world's most demanding 'classic' circuits will be enhanced by a wonderfully designed wrist-borne memento of the occasion.

The Bell & Ross website prodly states the company was formed in 1992 "to create watches perfectly suiting a professional use." Such professionals then included astronauts, pilots, divers and bomb disposal officers. To this list must be added the best racing drivers in the world.

And even if modern F1 cars do not have analogue dials any more, there's no doubting that the clarity designed into the regular Bell & Ross watches and chronometers via their aerospace design principles makes them as at home in the carbon-fibre F1 environemnt as they do in the depths of the oceans or at high altitude in the sky.
