L'and Vineyards Resort: An enchanting experience

14 July 2012 | Laura Leivo

Finally, a boutique hotel to tickle the taste buds of even the most demanding wine-lovers. With its mix of traditional Portuguese wine-making, natural beauty and understated luxury, L'and is the ideal setting for a relaxed getaway.

Here, guests can enjoy literally sleeping under the stars, with the Alentejo night sky just one button press away.

Located in the heart of Alentejo, Portugal, a region renowned for its beautiful landscape, vineyards and blue skies, L'and is unquestionably a charming destination. The secluded country club offers outstanding accommodation and service, together with imaginative wine-related activities guaranteed to inspire and deepen the knowledge of the wine-making traditions typical to the region. The guests can also expect a world-class spa and Portuguese gastronomical treats in the courtyard restaurant and, to top it all off, great wines of course.

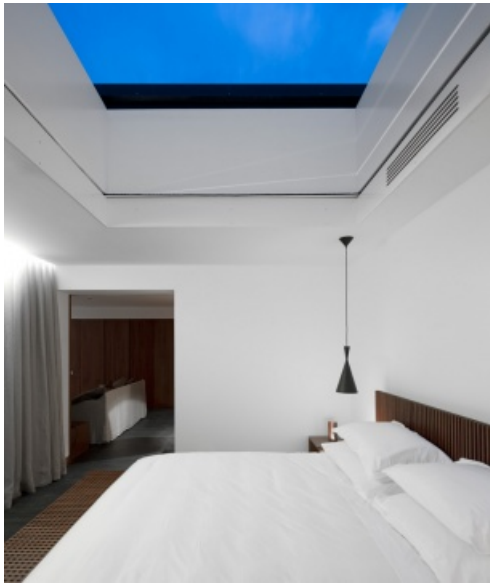

Meanwhile, the luxurious lodging includes 22 suites that combine natural materials such as stone, slate and wood to give a harmonious mix of contemporary and traditional style. The massive 120m<sup>2</sup> suites all have private terraces with fireplaces, plunge pools and a heart-stopping view over the vine garden, lake and local landscape. In case this is still not quite romantic enough, guests can also admire the velvety night sky while cozily tucked in bed. By just pressing a button, the roof above the bed opens to the heavens, revealing the stars.

Relaxing in the exclusive spa, enjoying a rejuvenating red wine barrel bath or a crushed cabernet scrub, while waiting for the next wine-tasting to start – this is surely the art of living. And it can all be done with a clear conscience, since L'and Vineyards supports green values and organic farming methods – the ultimate wellbeing for guests, as well as for nature itself.
