Premiummotorrad, Stuttgart: Classic, Custom and Art Bikes

20 May 2013 | Jan Richter

While many business owners drive to work in a saloon, Tobias Aichele of Premiummotorrad prefers the raw sensation of riding an MV Agusta 750 S. His attitude sums up the culture of the company...

Newly opened this year in Stuttgart's Meilenwerk, Premiummotorrad offers an attractive selection of classic motorbikes – and good advice.

“For me, Premiummotorrad is a dream come true,” said Aichele. A lifelong passion for motorcycles inspired him to open the company, and he is as happy to offer a showpiece collectors’ item for a true aficionado as he is selling an interesting ‘daily rider’ to the occasional enthusiast who wants something fun for the weekend.

The MV would fit into the latter category, while one of Aichele’s premier cru favourites is an Egli-Vincent. Either way, he can offer sound and friendly help.

And it's not only motorcycle sales that interest Aichele. Through the company's parent, Solitude GmbH, he is planning future events for lovers of two- and four-wheeled machinery.
