
AJS 350 K7: An out-of-the-ordinary 'barn-find'

03 June 2013 | J. Philip Rathgen

From 1909 to 1931, British AJS motorcycles took no fewer than 115 speed records. Today, the marque is appreciated by collectors worldwide. This 'barn-find', a 1927 349cc K7, was originally purchased in the 1960s as a restoration project.

It is a 'matching numbers' machine, although such is the state of disrepair that the engine and frame have parted company - 'matching', but no longer 'connected'.

Sadly, the bike is the vendor's late father's, who died before he had a chance to see it brought back to roadworthy condition. It's sold strictly 'as viewed' and estimated at £1,000 - 2,000.

Photos: Bonhams

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/motorr%C3%A4der/ajs-350-k7-out-ordinary-%E2%80%98barn-find%E2%80%99>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.