The Cizeta-Moroder V16T is an Italian sports car, created by automotive engineer Claudio Zampolli in a joint venture with music composer Giorgio Moroder and built from 1991 to 1995. It was the only product of the Cizeta Company, developed by a group of ex-Lamborghini employees and initially announced in 1988.

The car was viewed from the beginning as an exclusive sports car, capable of topping 200 mph (320 km/h). Top speed was 328 km/h (204 mph) and just 4 seconds were required to accelerate from 0 to 100 km/h (62 mph), while at the same time it was equipped with many luxury features.

In 1991, the list price for a Cizeta-Moroder was an estimated €600,000 or US$800,000. This price tag made it unattainable for most people who had such wealth to buy, due to being produced at the end of the speculator driven sports car price boom and the subsequent worldwide recession
