

CLASSIC DRIVER

Meet 'Marsha'... a DB6 by any other name

15 July 2013 | Steve Wakefield

Joining 'Genevieve', 'Eleanor' and other ladies in the car collectors' garage is 'Marsha' — better known to you and me as a rather nice 1967 Aston Martin.

She's been loved and cared for by the same family for the last 37 years. However, as is so often the case, there always comes a time for youngsters to leave home. At 46, Marsha might have left that decision a little longer than most, but, well, you know... the cost of housing nowadays.

In fact, it's due to her bijoux double-garage being needed for a redevelopment project that has meant her searching for new accommodation. A sad story, so if your heartstrings are feeling a little tugged, do look in the Classic Driver Marketplace for Marsha's contact details, and how she'd like to be looked after in the future.

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/meet-%E2%80%98marsha%E2%80%99%E2%80%A6-db6-any-other-name>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.