Vertu Constellation: The luxury smartphone

Lead

The new Vertu Constellation is a handmade amalgamation of titanium and luxurious calf leather, making it the true Rolls-Royce of mobile phones...

Are you looking for a smartphone that does away with mass production? Each Vertu Constellation is individually hand-crafted in England, out of the finest materials available. A titanium casing surrounds a vast 4.3-inch sapphire glass touchscreen and on the rear there's a luxurious leather backrest, making the Constellation feel extra exclusive. Inside, the phone is running the respected Android Jelly Bean operating system and houses an impressive 32GB of internal storage. Additionally, there's a 13-megapixel camera, capable of taking beautifully sharp photos and stunning HD video.

You're spoilt for choice, too – that sumptuous leather back is offered in five different shades: cappuccino, mocha, orange, raspberry, and classic black. The Constellation is now available in all Vertu stores priced at 4,900 euros. This level of individualised luxury doesn't come cheap.
