Pistons, Passions and Sicilian Pleasures

Lead

No one does emotion quite like the Italians... especially when it comes to cars (food) and racing. This trailer promises an enticing mix of fun, thrills, humour and – of course – no lack of pistons and passion, if plans for the proposed filming in 2014 come to pass...

When the idea first came about, the film was to be documentary about Felice Nazzaro's victory in the Targa Florio of 1913, in a car of his own manufacture. Later plans decided that it would instead concentrate on the early life of the legendary race's founder, Vincenzo Florio, but whatever the final content, this short teaser shows what a fabulous Sicilian treat is in store.
