Description

French title - Matching numbers - Porsche certificate - Restored in 2011 This Porsche 2.4-litres S was bought three years ago by its current owner from Etn RMS in Vannes, France. It was completely restored in 2010, but the engine showed no weaknesses: the video reflects this on our online catalogue. The oil pressure is good and it does not overheat. Since the restoration, the car has covered only 11,000 km. This original matching numbers car comes with all its original components (chassis, engine, transmission) and has never been used for competition. It comes equipped with Recaro seats and a new stainless steel exhaust. The car is accompanied by a very nice file and a certificate signed by Porsche certifying the car's authenticity. Part of the first generation with its purity of line, this 911 has aerodynamic improvements executed by Tilman Brodbeck at the request of Helmut Bott, head of development, to ensure that the car has adequate downforce at high speed. Hence the presence of the front spoiler. Its air-cooled six-cylinder engine develops 190bhp, which makes the car quite quick as it is so light. Versatile, the car has the incomparable reliability of a Porsche, especially when properly maintained, which has been the case with this fine example.
