Icons of Hollywood: Can you guess all 50?

Lead

If a picture is worth a thousand words, these simple graphic interpretations of 50 iconic big- and small-screen moments should give you enough clues to be able to guess their source...

Since we're focusing on the art of playing truant this week, the first image in the gallery should be obvious – but in case it isn't, we will tell you that it's from the build-up to the legendary scene from the 1986 cult classic Ferris Bueller's Day Off. Scroll through the gallery above and see if you can identify the remaining 49, each of which is available as a print from California-based graphic design company DKNG Studios.
