The Gladstone Cinder Path Racer is the bicycle for the discerning hooligan

Lead

In the Gladstone factory's own words, it makes handmade British motorcycles for the "discerning hooligan". Now the London company has brought out something a little different – an attractive retro bicycle for modern roads...

The Cinder Path Racer combines classic British racing looks with modern quality components. Closer inspection reveals the bike's purist charm, with its nickel-plated fleur-de-lys lugs and a functional, two-speed cable tree hub. Gladstone is also living up to its promise of bespoke specifications on request, creating 18-speed, caliper-braked versions of the Cinder Path Racer, as requested by some customers.
