
Blenheim Palace to host Salon Privé 2015

15 January 2015 | Joe Breeze

Now in its 10th year, Salon Privé will move from its familiar location at Syon Park to the spectacular backdrop of Blenheim Palace, a venue built in the 18th Century – and the birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill...

In addition to the usual recipe of high-end classics and the latest supercars showcased alongside various luxury and lifestyle brands, a new test drive and demonstration element will join the programme. According to the organisers, visitors will have the opportunity to “test drive many of the desirable cars present”, with the internal network of roads (and those stretching beyond into the Oxfordshire countryside) offering manufacturers plenty of room to demonstrate their offerings. Furthermore, a new public day will also host a ‘Speed & Style’ competition, set to feature supercars from 1975 to the present day.

Save the date

The event will retain its usual early-September fixture, taking place between Thursday 3rd and Saturday 5th. Tickets will go on sale shortly at www.salonpriveconcours.com

Photos: Salon Privé

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/blenheim-palace-host-salon-prive-2015>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.