Watch 'Game of Thrones' star Robb Stark go Group B rallying

08 March 2015 | Joe Breeze

In the last few years, we've been treated to a handful of well-executed motorsport movies - but none that focused on one of the most dramatic areas of the sport's history, Group B rallying. But that's set to change...

The short film places 'Game of Thrones' star Richard Madden (better known as Robb Stark) in the role of Shane Hunter, who attempts an audacious return to rallying during its most dangerous era. Further details are scarce at present, but we do know that Madden's co-stars include Michael Smiley and an MG Metro 6R4 - and that Nick Rowland will take up the directorial reins. The short film is currently being pitched to numerous film festivals around the world, so watch this space... and the above trailer, too.
