

CLASSIC DRIVER

This Ducati 860 S is a mint-green espresso for the senses

Lead

Resplendent in mint green parked up casually outside a coffee shop, you might assume this Ducati's mid-life transformation was the work of an Italian. However, its striking styling was, in fact, mastered in chilly Stockholm...

The brainchild of Johan Orrestedt – owner of Swedish 'wheels and waves' shop 6/5/4 Motors – this Ducati really is a breath of fresh sea air. Bringing together the leisure pastimes of riding and surfing, the bike was intended to be a simpler and lighter version of the original 860 GT, albeit retaining the 'alien' V-twin engine, the iconic tank, and the horizontal frame line.

Scandinavian pick-me-up

After searching Sweden for the perfect donor bike – a mid-70s GTS variant that had been laid up in a barn for many years – 6/5/4 set to work stripping, lightening, overhauling and painting. The chosen colour? Well, the inspiration came not from a sophisticated mint tea, but a good old beer can. The look was completed by adding diamond-quilted leather from Swedish tannery Tärnsjö, along with retro-look Coker Diamond tyres and simple flick-switches for the lights. Who'd have thought the Swedes could do Italian elegance?

Photos: Simon Hamelius (outside) / Johannes Helje (studio) / David Gonzales (board) for 6/5/4 Motors

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/bikes/ducati-860-s-mint-green-espresso-senses>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.