Keith Richards once escaped the English weather (and the long arm of the law), travelling in his blue Bentley to Marrakech via Gibraltar. And he had good reason – not only is the temperature mild (in January the mercury rarely drops below 20 degrees), but the city is also rich in culture. Devoted ski-enthusiasts can even head to the nearby Atlas Mountains for some quality slopes. In these villas and riads from the Classic Driver Market, we'd love to spend the coming winter months.
