

CLASSIC DRIVER

The Levante SUV is a new direction for Maserati

Lead

Ahead of its debut at the Geneva Motor Show next month, Maserati has revealed the long-awaited Levante, the Trident's first stab at conquering the increasingly busy luxury SUV market...

Aesthetically, the Maserati Levante is in line with the rest of the model range, and that’s no bad thing. It’s actually rather Porsche Cayenne-like, especially from the rear three-quarters. Equipped with either petrol or diesel engines and said to boast “unrivalled handling and excellent off-road performance and ride”, the Levante will be launched in Europe in the spring.

Photos: Maserati

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/levante-suv-new-direction-maserati>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.