Hollywood comes to Enzo's house for new exhibition

Lead

A new exhibition at the Museo Enzo Ferrari – situated in the grounds of Il Commendatore's former house in Modena – pays tribute to the marque's role on the silver screen, with a number of A-listers on display...

The silver screen stars on display include the Magnum P.I. 308 GTs, the Miami Vice Testarossa, the 512S used in Le Mans and the 375 America driven by the equally gorgeous Sophia Loren in Boy on a Dolphin. Beyond icons with their own on-screen provenance, other exhibits represent the objects of affection for such names as Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, Peter Sellers and Marilyn Monroe – the latter of which held the white 250 GT Cabriolet Pininfarina above in particularly high regard. The exhibition is open now; visit the Museo Enzo Ferrari website for further details.
