
Journey West astride the Ural X Pendleton Gaucho Rambler

29 March 2016 | Alex Easthope

Ural has teamed up with Pendleton Woolen Mills to put a distinctively Native American twist on its latest limited-edition sidecar motorcycle...

The Wild West

We rather like the sidecar motorcycles from Ural here at Classic Driver, for their blend of unashamed ruggedness and simple style. Just 50 of these Gaicho Rambler special editions will be built in collaboration with Pendleton Woolen Mills, the famous producer of Native American blankets founded in the late 19th Century. Resplendent in Pacific Blue paintwork, the Gaicho incorporates 'sunburnt' canvas upholstery and a Pendleton 'Journey West' blanket. Whereas Ural's previous 'Sportsman' motorcycle primarily concerned the destination, the Gaicho Rambler is seemingly very much about the journey.

Photos: Ural

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/bikes/journey-west-astride-ural-x-pendleton-gaicho-rambler>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.