
The Festival da Jazz in St. Moritz will leave the Alps glowing

09 June 2016 | Jan Baedeker

The Engadin becomes an introspective place in the summer months. But for one month from 7 July, St. Moritz will play host to an exclusive jazz festival, turning the fashionable Alpine village into a multidimensional musical venue...

Diana Krall, Klaus Doldinger, Silje Nergaard, Cécile McLorin Salvant and Maceo Parker – just some of the famous names in jazz that the organisers of the Festival da Jazz have managed to lure to St. Moritz this year. Founded in 2007 by Rolf Sachs and Christian Jott Jenny, the highest jazz festival in Europe has established itself as a must-attend event in the musical calendar. Adding to its charm, each concert will be limited to just 150 guests, and held in exclusive venues such as Dracula Club, the Sunny Bar at the Kulm Hotel and on the terrace of the Panorama Restaurant in the Romantik Hotel Muottas Muragl. You can find the entire programme for the festival here.
