

---

Leica's family tree achieves maximum price at Christie's in London

15 September 2016 | Jan Baedeker

During a recent Christie's auction offering interesting collectables, a 'family tree' of 107 Leica cameras was sold for £360,000...

At approximately three metres high and two metres wide, the family tree represents the development of Leica's iconic cameras from 1914 until 2014, including prototypes and examples of the most famous M- and R-series. Previously seen in Leica's factory museum in Sölms, Christie's achieved a hammer price of £300,000 for the piece, exclusive of buyer's premium.

Photos: Leica / Christie's

---

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/collectables/leicas-family-tree-achieves-maximum-price-christies-london>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.