

CLASSIC DRIVER

This virginal Ford GT40 is low-down but not \(yet\) dirty

Lead

The legendary Ford GT40 sported numerous memorable liveries in its day – but the purest way of accentuating the car's low-down (and in this case, rather clean) profile comes by dressing it in nothing but virginal white, as London-based digital production studio INK has done here...

Clean sweep

The GT40 is the third installment in the studio's 'Le Mans plain-body' series, to which a new model is added annually as part of an internal training project for its junior 3D modellers. Previous years have seen the Porsche 917 and Jaguar D-type digitally immortalised in the same manner, making for a new way to showcase machines that have been so widely acclaimed since their respective victories.

Photos: INK

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/art/virginal-ford-gt40-low-down-not-yet-dirty>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.