You can't beat a burbling V8, but as a result of engine downsizing, the all-rounder of sports car engines' days could be numbered. Here are ten V8-powered future classics that still promise the thrill of driving...

There are currently more than 2,000 cars built in the last 16 years currently for sale in the Classic Driver Market, including Aston Martins, Bentleys, Ferraris, Lamborghinis and Porsches – a large number of which can be bought for a fraction of their original prices. Of the sporting eight-cylinder machines alone in this often-neglected segment of the market, you can get a vast amount of car for a small amount of money. We've chosen ten V8-powered future classics that we'd be thrilled to take on a Grand Tour.
