
You needn't be an agent of the Crown to set sail on 007's yacht

18 January 2017 | James Bannister

While the means of transport designated to James Bond are always in line with his impeccable taste, due to the nature of his work most of them are returned either damaged or simply blown up. This stunning super yacht used by 007 in Skyfall, however, remains thankfully intact...

Straight from the silver screen

Currently listed for sale in Luxembourg for a princely 8.85m euros, Regina was the vessel of choice for 007 and Séverine - played by Daniel Craig and Bérénice Lim Marlohe, respectively - in the 2012 thriller Skyfall. The 56-metre schooner yacht, which was crafted by Med Yachts in 2011, features six marble-walled en-suite cabins and spacious decking areas ideal for sunbathing, al fresco dining, or epic, drawn-out fist fights. Bond might not have appreciated Regina's entertaining spaces and opulent accommodation (his mind was clearly elsewhere), but that doesn't mean you can't.

Photos: Engel & Völkers Yachting, Luxury Charter Group

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/yachts/you-neednt-be-agent-crown-set-sail-007s-yacht>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.