

CLASSIC DRIVER

We're on the road to Le Mans with the one millionth Porsche 911

Lead

Opportunities don't come much better than this. We're making the pilgrimage to Le Mans — Porsche's spiritual home — in the one millionth 911...

Who wants to be a millionaire

Le Mans and Porsche — much like cheese and red wine, roast lamb and mint sauce, or Jekyll and Hyde, you can't think of one without instinctively thinking about the other. The Stuttgart giant's chances in this year's 24-hour race are looking rather promising given its pesky rivals at Audi are no longer taking part. Which makes driving there in the one millionth 911 — what is arguably the most important production Porsche in the world right now — such a treat. You can see all the latest from our journey and our time at Le Mans by following our Instagram account. And if you're going to be at the Circuit de la Sarthe this weekend, do come and say hello!

Photos: Mathieu Bonnevie for Classic Driver © 2017

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/were-road-le-mans-one-millionth-porsche-911>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.