

CLASSIC DRIVER

What has six wheels, orange paint, and an excitable driver?

04 July 2017 | James Bannister

It's a common problem — your high-powered superbike is failing to fulfil your every high-octane desire, so a stablemate is needed. For one lucky buyer, this problem can be solved in one neat two-vehicle package — both very orange and packing a serious punch...

Performance squared

Offered from a private collection as a pair, both the 2007 Benelli TNT 1130 and the 2015 Porsche 991 GT3 RS are resplendent in Porsche Lava Orange, with the 131bhp superbike having been colour-matched to the Stuttgart track weapon for promotional purposes. The pairing of an Italian stallion and a German goliath may not be the most common, but given both vehicle's out-and-out performance-focused character and striking looks, some parallels can be drawn. Currently for sale in the Classic Driver Market, this duo is a speed freak's dream and would be a fine addition to any garage...

---

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/bikes/what-has-six-wheels-orange-paint-and-excitabile-driver>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.