Take a look under the skin of Ferrari at the Design Museum

Lead

Dates for the ‘Ferrari: Under the Skin’ exhibit at the Design Museum have been announced and there’s plenty of time for Londoners to catch a glimpse of the history behind not only one of the most iconic car manufacturers, but also one of the top most powerful brands in the world...

Forever Ferrari

The Design Museum has confirmed that the ambitious display of all things Ferrari, currently on show at the Museo Ferrari in Maranello, Italy — the home of the ubiquitous marque — will open on 15 November 2017 and will run for five months straight, closing on 15 April 2018. From wind tunnel models and design sketches to archival documents and personal memorabilia of founder Enzo Ferrari’s — along with, of course, some of the marque’s most successful models on display — Under the Skin delves further into the marque’s storied history than ever before.
