

CLASSIC DRIVER

This dream house was designed around a sensational car collection

07 November 2017 | Alex Easthope

For its latest project, Matt Fajkus Architecture has built a spectacular house around its owner's equally spectacular car collection...

All my exes live in Texas...

Built to house around a dozen cars belonging to a Texas-based collector, the new house by Matt Fajkus Architecture in Austin is an enthusiast's dream. The onus has very much been placed on the cars, from the lack of view-obstructing supports to the large glass windows, which allow a tantalising peak from the second floor. It's cleverly designed, too — the structure was shifted backwards to allow for a bigger driveway without increasing the building's footprint. Throw in some tasteful and thoroughly modern interior design, and you've got a contemporary house that respects and complements the old-school aesthetic of some fabulous motor cars.

Photos: Matt Fajkus Architecture

<https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/real-estate/dream-house-was-designed-around-a-sensational-car-collection>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.