Together with Jaguar, British fashion brand Private White V.C. has launched a limited-edition Harrington driving jacket, and only a few are left in stock...

That the makers from the Manchester-based clothing brand Private White V.C. have a penchant for fast and classic machines is well established — especially since our entertaining interview with creative director Nick Ashley last year. Now, the champions of traditional British menswear have teamed up with Jaguar to create an elegant yet functional driver's jacket. Most of the 200 examples have already been sold, but with a little luck, you may still be able to add one to your basket on the Private White V.C. website...
