Description

"The Cadillac XLR is a luxury roadster, their flagship sports car to compete with the Mercedes SL and Jaguar XK. Featuring its own unique styling, sumptuous interior, magnetic ride suspension and power-retractable aluminium hardtop. The car was based on the Corvette C5 floorplan and the legendary North star 4.6 V8. Cadillac introduced the XLR at the 2003 Detroit Motor Show and began production in 2004 and it was the first production Cadillac with radar adaptive cruise control the XLR ended production after the 2009 model year. The XLR features as standard equipment; heated and cooled leather seats, Eucalyptus wood veneer interior trim, remote keyless access, 18 inch alloy wheels, side airbags as well as a navigation, audio, and DVD system sharing a 7-inch dashboard screen. If you are searching for the ideal combination of performance and style this 2006 Cadillac XLR Roadster has to be high up on the list. This Cadillac, originally registered in the UK on 19th January 2006, is an official export example and therefore meets with all the European regulation. The vendor has decided to reduce his collection so this is a rare opportunity to own such a desirable and powerful XLR. With a specification list that appears to be endless, the beauty in these Cadillac's is the effortless drive and comfort, heated and cooled seats coupled with heads up display to name but a few. This XLR Roadster is in superb condition having been serviced by and MOT tested by authorised dealer in April 2018, Ian Allan. New brake discs and pads have since been fitted and the car is ready to be enjoyed immediately by the new owner. A current MoT test certificate, V5C registration document and history folder are supplied with D1 XLR and in such fabulous order, viewing is highly recommended."
