

CLASSIC DRIVER

An Aston Martin DBS Superleggera to match your TAG Heuer

Lead

Since Aston Martin announced TAG Heuer as its official partner at Geneva last year, we knew it was only a matter of time until we saw a timepiece with the famous Aston wings on its dial. And sure enough, it's arrived. What's more, it's accompanied by a limited TAG Heuer Edition DBS Superleggera...

Timing is everything?

The new special edition of Aston's flagship DBS Superleggera has been designed to celebrate the British manufacturer's official tie-up with TAG Heuer. And we're pleased to report the car looks rather smart. The menacing specification includes 'Monaco Black' paint, a smattering of carbon-fibre aerodynamic trinkets, and a black leather and Alcantara interior contrasted with bright red stitching, piping, and TAG logos embroidered in the seats. We'd probably have stopped short of the Formula 1-style red-walled Pirelli tyres, though we imagine they'll have their admirers. There's no word on the price yet, but we do know each car will be delivered together with a matching Carrera Heuer Aston Martin Special Edition watch. If you're so inclined, the piece can also be purchased separately, priced at 6,550 US dollars.

Photos: Aston Martin

Gallery

