It is this version that interests us in these pages. The car presented here is a SL 280 6-cylinder engine put into service on May 25, 1999. Ordered new in France in a classic but elegant metallic grey configuration with black leather interior. It is equipped with the hardtop and automatic transmission in the list of options. Always carefully maintained in the Mercedes network, the car presented here is in very good original condition without any modification. The soft top works normally and the hardtop can be repositioned without any problems thanks to the hydraulic system. Recently the car has been overhauled and brand-new wheels installed. In the test, the 204 hp 6-cylinder engine seems to be more than enough for the ride and emits a soft, low-spin torque most beautiful engines. The gearbox is smooth, and the suspension is also in perfect condition. The roadworthiness test is less than six months old is valid. There is no doubt that the future will prove SL R129 buyers right: these roadsters have entered the noble world of vintage cars and are seeing their price tag increased the last few month.
