Owing to the coronavirus pandemic, Osenat is staging what was supposed to be its March auction as an online-only sale instead, the bidding for which ends on 27 May. From a 1990s Mercedes-Benz S Class estimated below 10,000 euros to a fabulous green Lamborghini Miura, these are our highlights...

The undisputed headline act in Osenat's online-only Automobiles de Collection auction, the bidding for which ends on 27 May, is the 1969 Lamborghini Miura P400 S. One of the most original Miuras in existence, chassis #4332 has been lovingly maintained by its French owner since 1981. Showing a genuine 52,000km on the clock, the beautiful Lamborghini is estimated to sell for 700,000–1m euros.

Elsewhere, at the lower end of the catalogue, we were taken with the charming 1999 TVR Chimaera 400, a well-used yet tidy looking example that's estimated at just 11,000–16,000 euros, and the whale-tailed 1996 Ford Escort RS Cosworth (est. 38,000–45,000 euros). The latter, resplendent in metallic dark green, was owned by the same man from new until 2017 and has covered just 65,000km. You can find our 10 favourites from The March Auction by Osenat listed below or, alternatively, browse the entire catalogue in the Classic Driver Market.
