Give your collector car the spectacular show home it deserves

Lead

Why keep your pride and joy tucked away in a dark, dank garage when you could proudly exhibit it in one of these contemporary gallery-like structures from the German company Fahrengold instead?

Constructed in Germany from the highest quality materials, the bespoke Fahrengold FG1 is billed by its maker as 'the garage redefined'. Half specially strengthened aluminium and half glass, the pre-fabricated structure, which can be erected on the grounds of your house, puts your collector car centre-stage in a thoroughly modern, gallery-like setting.

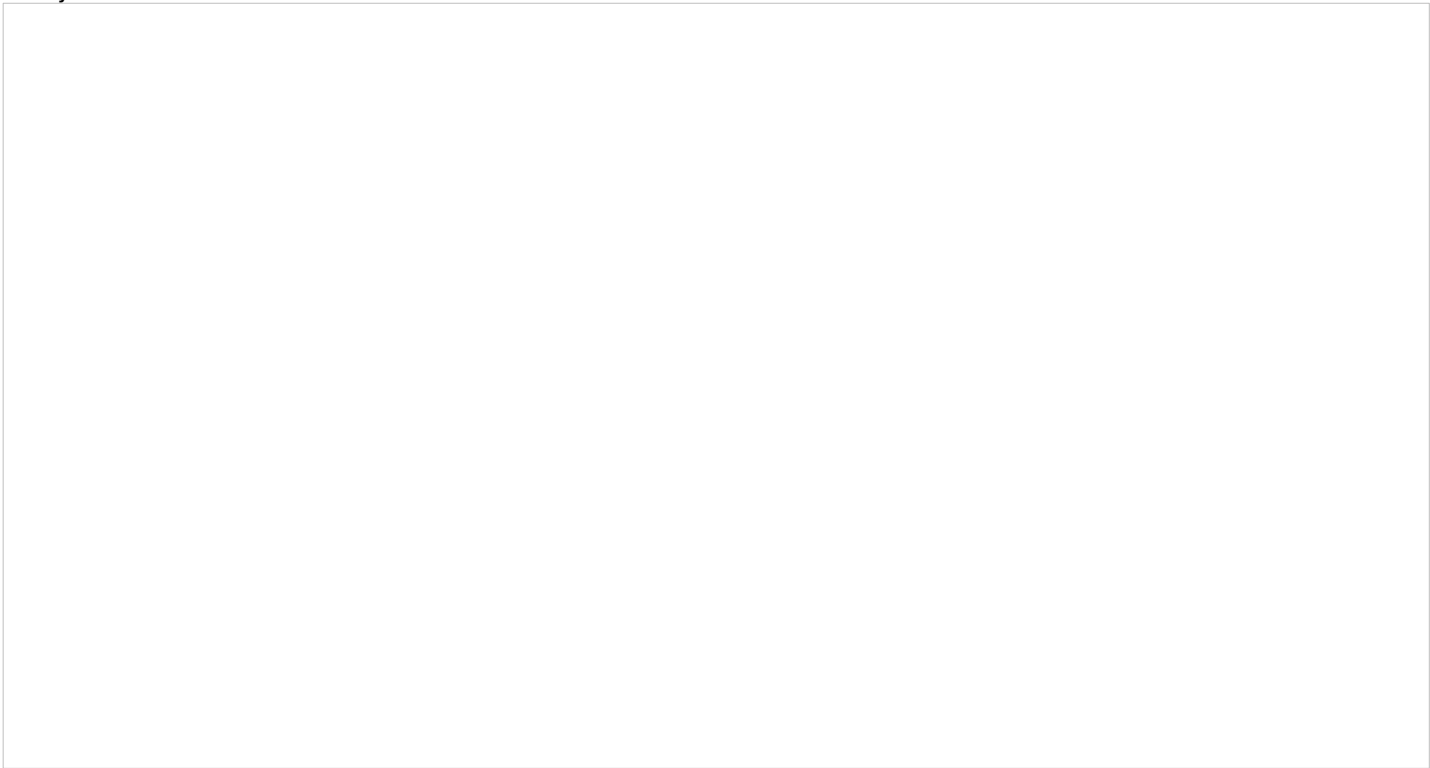

The garage redefined

Each FG1 can be customised to cater to the demands of its owner – in addition to the dimmable LED ceiling strips, power sockets and built-in storage, you can specify different colour walls, floor ‘showroom’ lighting, a smart home system and a double-winged electronic gate. For those wondering about the safety and security of their pride and joy, the FG1 comes with an active air exchanger, while heating and air-conditioning, safety glass and a security package can be added. The latter comprises interior cameras, a motion sensor and several alarms, giving you complete peace of mind. As summer barbeque talking points go, we reckon this is going to take some beating.
