Description

- one of the last Fiat 1400 B, produced in 1958 and registered in 1959, in the same collection for 18 years.
- original mechanics, it is one of the last examples produced with the most powerful variant of the 1400 58hp engine, improved finishes, with the central fog light and the two-tone body.
- ash blue on ivory color, excellently preserved bodywork with a pleasant patina, original and very well preserved interiors, very nice steel and chrome details, additional fog lights.
- Mechanically complete, it has been sitting for several years. Has not a valid MOT.
- the first new designed Fiat model after the Second World War and the first unibody Fiat, built with the advice of the Budd bodyshop in Detroit. Produced in 179,000 units and extremely rare to find in this condition. Complete with 1970 logbook, "Foglio Complementare" and very rare use and maintenance manual.
