One of just 14 Porsche 993 Turbo Cabriolets spearheads Noble Auctions' online Porsche sale, which comprises a small selection of Stuttgart's most famous export...

There are just six 911s in the catalogue for Noble Auctions' online Porsche Auction, the bidding for which is already open and closes on 13 July. Leading the way is the aforementioned 1995 Porsche 993 Turbo Cabriolet, one of just 14 produced. It's been owned by the same collector for the last 15 years, and has been rarely driven in that time. Among the rarest 911s in existence, this black-over-green unicorn is estimated at 600,000-800,000 euros. Hot on its heels is the 2016 Porsche 911R, whose first and only owner – a marque connoisseur – has exercised the restraint to only cover 231km. Number 309 of 991 produced, it's estimated to sell for 200,000-350,000 euros. Elsewhere, we love the 1996 Porsche 993 Carrera 4S resplendent in the incredibly rare shade of Libelltuerkis (est. 65,000-85,000 euros) and the stripped-out 1991 Porsche 964 Carrera 2 track-day special (55,000-70,000 euros). You can find the entire catalogue for Noble Auctions' Porsche Auction which ends on 13 July, listed in the Classic Driver Market.
