Automobilist celebrates the past, present and future of motorsport

07 September 2020 | Classic Driver

Why predict the future when you can create it? In this, the 50th year since Porsche's maiden victory at Le Mans, Automobilist has taken three of the Stuttgart marque's most famous racing cars and dropped them into a distant future where nothing is quite as it seems...

The Daytona-winning Brumos Racing 911 Carrera RSR tackling the 29th Moon Race, a 48-hour endurance challenge around the Giordano Bruno Crater on the Lunar surface. The Salzburg 917K tackling a utopian 24 Hours of Le Mans in 2054. The 12th Martian Race on the Northeast Syrtis Circuit starring the ex-Carrera Panamericana 356 SL. Automobilist has put this trio of illustrious Porsche racers in intriguing contexts that merge motorsport history with a dream-like future.
