Description

The car we propose is a FIAT 1200 TV, a special Fiat bodywork produced in 1959 for the US market. This small FIAT convertible was a real sales success in the years of production, not only in Europe but also above all the United States, a symbol of an elegant but at the same time affordable car for a large number of people.

The line of the FIAT 1200 TV Trasformabile (That is the italian for spider) is very simple, but not trivial.

There are few ribs both on the hood and on the side, for a profile and general line that appears clean and embellished by the many chrome plating and the rims, also in this case simple but very impressive, and also chromed.

The front stands out for the large grille divided into two, strictly chromed and accompanied in the lower area by a chrome belt.

The car we propose was imported to Italy in 2016 and has undergone a long conservative restoration.

Finally, at the end of 2018 it was registered.
