This 1959 Triumph TR3A is in a satisfactory condition of old restoration. Its metallic gray paint presents well despite some defects of the time. Its dark green upholstery is in good condition, without snags or tears, like the soft top. It is on the mechanical level that the work has focused in recent years. Indeed, the cooling system was completely revised, the brakes were revised, the clutch mechanism revised with new transmitter and receiver. The starter motor and fuel pump were also replaced. We found that the engine and gearbox were working well during a road test. It is therefore a beautiful copy of Triumph TR3A which asks only to roll without fear of a chip of gravel on the paint! Above all, it has been in the same hands for 23 years and work has been done to make it more reliable.

File available on request.
