Description

Limited to just 15 examples, the commemorative Continental GT wears a similar 'Radium' green-and-black livery. This vehicle became the fastest production car to ever participated in the 12.42 mile course with American racer Rhys Millen and set the record time of 10min 18.4 sec. The vehicle also has the number 100 painted across the front grille (which is an option) in recognition of Bentley's centenary.

The vehicle features a carbon fibre bodykit with contrasting black trim elements, bright green callipers and matching sidewall markings on the tyres.

The interior Radium theme is continued, with black Alcantara green stitching and a Pike Peak course displayed on the carbon fibre dashboard.
