x000D The VPMZ (acronym for Vjatskie Poljany Mehaničeskij Zavod) Company, known as Vjatka, was a Russian factory founded in 1940 with the aim of producing light weapons. At the end of the war period, it reconverted production to look for profitable product sectors, and after several attempts to produce mechanical components, which were unable to fill the production gap, the Government decided that the new target for relaunch should be the scooter. Therefore, they cloned a Vespa 150 and started production. This is a great opportunity to buy a Soviet-style replica of our Vespas. Restored and presumably never used since. A general mechanical check is recommended before use.
