Description

The Bentley Continental GTC is four seat grand tourer built to compete against Aston Martin's DB9 and Mercedes' SL range. It was the first car to be produced following the Volkswagen Audi Group takeover and included a company first offering all wheel drive. Powered by a 6-litre W12 twin-turbo engine producing 552 bhp, the GTC could accelerate from 0-62 mph in just 5.1 seconds and onto a top speed of 195 mph whilst seating four adults with luggage in luxury.

The Bentley Continental GTC offered here at Autostorico is a 2007 "57 Plate" finished in Silver Tempest Metallic with Black leather interior. Having covered a mere 27,275 miles, this lovely example boasts a comprehensive service history, the last of which was carried out by Hofmann's of Henley at 24,988 miles. Specification highlights include: 19" Alloy wheels Park distance control front and rear, Climate control, Heated seats, Memory seats, Soft close doors, Cruise control, Xenon headlights, Power fold door mirrors and Floor mats.
